

Preventable Disease Transmission in the Healthcare Setting: Influenza and Pertussis Best Practices for Prevention

On-Demand, Web-Based CME/CPE/CNE Activity

To participate in this activity at no charge, visit www.princetoncme.com

Faculty

Priya Sampathkumar, MD

Consultant, Division of Infectious Diseases
Mayo Clinic

Amy Nicole Duckro, DO

Specialist, Infectious Diseases, Kaiser Permanente
Chairperson, Infection Prevention Committee
Exempla Good Samaritan Medical Center

Steven M. Gordon, MD

Chairman, Department of Infectious Diseases
Cleveland Clinic Foundation

Target Audience

This activity is designed for physicians, pharmacists, and nurses.

Learning Objectives

After completing this activity, participants should be able to:

- Summarize the clinical and economic burden associated with the spread of influenza and pertussis through healthcare workers
- Define the evidence-based role of immunization in the prevention of influenza and pertussis in healthcare workers
- List risk factors for contraction of and transmission of influenza and pertussis
- Review vaccine efficacy and recent clinical data on the effect of immunization of healthcare workers on preventable-disease occurrence
- Implement plans to enhance vaccine administration programs to all healthcare workers

Activity Overview

To be eligible for documentation of credit, participants must read or read and listen to the full educational activity, complete the 10-question post-test with a score of 70% or better, and complete the evaluation form. Participants who successfully complete the post-test and evaluation form online may immediately print their documentation of credit.

Estimated time to complete: 1 hour

Release Date: November 27, 2006; Expiration Date: November 27, 2007

Note: Participants who have successfully completed the live version of this activity are not eligible to receive credit for this enduring material.

There is no fee associated with this activity.

CME Accreditation

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas and policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education through the joint sponsorship of the American Academy of CME, Inc and Princeton Media Associates, Program in Medicine Division. The American Academy of CME, Inc is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The American Academy of CME, Inc designates this activity for a maximum of 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit[™]. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

To contact the American Academy of CME, Inc, please e-mail dbottinick@academycme.org or call 609-921-6622.

CPE Accreditation

 Princeton Media Associates, Program in Medicine Division is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education as a Provider of continuing pharmacy education (ACPE Provider #452) and complies with the Criteria for Quality and Interpretive Guidelines. This activity is approved for 1 hour credit (0.1 CEU) of continuing pharmacy education (ACPE #452-297-06-010-H01).

CNE Accreditation

The American Academy of CME, Inc is accredited as a provider of continuing nursing education by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation.

The American Academy of CME, Inc designates this activity for 1.0 contact hour.

To participate in this activity at no charge, visit www.princetoncme.com

Jointly sponsored by the American Academy of CME, Inc and Princeton Media Associates, Program in Medicine Division

Supported by an unrestricted educational grant from sanofi pasteur